FULTON IS SURE TO MEET JESS WILLARD SOME TIME

Despite Uncertainty About July 4 Battle Big Fred is the Title Holder's Natural Rival and This Pair Will Furnish the Next Heavyweight Championship Fight - Fulton's Advantages Over Willard.

Copyright, 1918, by The Free Publishing Co. (The New York Evening World).
WILLARD and Fred Fulton will furnish the next heavyweight championship fight, whether it's held on July 4 or some other time. Fulton is Willard's natural rival for the title. He will be the first man of his own height Willard ever met in the ring. He will be the cleverest boxer Willard ever met, with the single exception of Jack Johnson, And, unlike Johnson, Fulton is coming, not going. Fulton has a longer reach than any other man Willard ever fought.

He has bigger fists than any other man Willard ever fought, and a harder punch than any other man Willard ever fought. It may be that when he fought Willard, Gunboat Smith could hit as hard as Fulton does now, but he was a wild awinger, not a clean and scientific puncher. Smith beat Willard in twenty rounds, being the referee's decision. Fulton isn't the heaviest man Willard ever fought, but he is the fastest big man, by far. Johnson and Morris were both heavier-which was a handicap. Johnson weighed about 230 pounds, Morris about 225 pounds, and Fulton's best fighting weight is from 212 to 215 pounds.

Pulton has a frame fit to carry 240 pounds. He might weigh 240 without carrying fat. But he is of the leanly muscular type, like Bob Fitzsimmons. Fulton is not inclined to take on fat. He trains regularly and fights like and without fine trains regularly and fights.

I have seen Willard take blows. I saw Soldier Kearns, who was a tremendous hitter then, land a crushing swing in Willard's body and step back to let him fall. And Willard lunged forward and knocked Kearns cleanly out with one blow.

I saw Jack Johnson, in Havans, work for two rounds for the opening he wanted, and finally sink his glove to the wrist in Willard's solar plexus and Willard countered and knocked Johnson about ten feet. I saw Johnson a saw Johnson for a saw Johnson and Willard countered and knocked on the jaw dazed him for a second, but he showed no effect of it. Fulton has a habit of knocking out opponents.

Willard has the ability to knock out opponents, but doesn't do it except on rare occasions. He lacks natural astreamy to avoid punishment himself, and to avoid punishment himself, and to less on much effort. Again, he is lazy, in the ring as well as in the knock out training quarters. Also he has an ayerwhelming cense of caution. In his early fights, when it was hard to win, he had streaks of aggressiveness usually a fash after being hurt.

Willard was as big and as fast before fighting Johnson as he was at Havana, although he lacked the really great skill he showed in that fight.

WINS PENTATHLON AT RELAY CARNIVAL William F. Bartels Triumphs

PENN FRESHMAN

Over Field of Fifteen at Franklin Field.

PHILADELPHIA, April 21,-WIBam F. Bartels, a freshman at the University of Pennsylvania, won the Pentathlon at the Penn relay carnival on Franklin Field, scoring over a field of fifteen competitors.

Bartels, who came through with fifteen points, scored victories in the javelin and discus, a second piace in the broad jump, fifth in the 200 metre and sixth in the 1,500-metre run. He came down to the last event so well in front that he had only to remain on his feet to be assured of the prize. So he merely jozzed around the track, letting those who so desired race.

D. F. Shea of Dartmouth was second, four points behind the leader. while Haddock of Kansas, Hammond of Sewance, Brechtel of Lafayette and Emmery of Penn State came along in order.

The laurel wreath that once was Thorpe's, the glory that was Berry's. ilts at precarious angle on the brow of Bartels. He was good enough to win, but without offending the youngster, who revelled in his vicory, he does not compare with the peerless Sao and Fox, nor the powerful Berry. Yet too much may not be asked of a boy who is only in the first flush of youth. As for the rest of the field, they were of mediocre ability. The competition was of second class order. Either the entry lists were padded or wholesale scratches played havou with the fields. In the American college distance relay teams the University of Chicago and Penn sent teams to the line. Seven were named to go. The race was utterly lacking in thrills, but Chicago certainly had a fine little workout. It won by almost three-quarters of a lap. This was only one race of several that were spoiled by scratches. Yet there were some fine races for all that.

Perhaps the most thrilling event on the card was the medley sprint relay race, in which the University of Pitteburgh defeated Penn, Penn State and Lafayette after a scenaw struggle in which the lead changed half a dozen times. Penn State's chances were ruined when Ullery executed an exceedingly difficult but likewise expensive dive. It cost yards of territory, but State got up to finish third.

The filers from Camp Dix made their usual clean up in their race. O. C. Anderson, Willie Anderson, Kelly and Howard Berry made away with the gold watches. Berry ran a great race against Willie Gordon and beat the latter in the dash for home. Gordon made a mistake by playing a waiting game. It was evident that Berry was in no condition to run a real gruelling race, but Gordon refused to cut the pace. To be sure, Berry, a sprinter, outran him at the end. was utterly lacking in thrills, but Chi-
